How to use this manual

Read Parts 1–3 once until you can explain the product and price it in your sleep. Parts 4–7 are your live-call toolkit — keep them open on your phone. Part 8 keeps you out of trouble. Part 9 is how you get paid. Don't read this to the customer. Internalise it, then speak like a human.

THE ONE RULE ABOVE ALL RULES

Negotiate to the highest price the business can comfortably pay, and close on the spot. No approvals, no "let me check with the office." You are a closer, not a lead collector.

PART 1 — Know exactly what you're selling

TapLab in one line

NOTE

"We build you your own digital page — your menu, your services, your photos — live in a day or two, with a QR code and a login so you control it yourself."

Product A — The Webpage ★ (SELL THIS FIRST)

A single, smart, beautiful page hosted by us at a link like taplab.in/businessname. Think "Linktree, but built properly and made for your business." This is our hero product — push it hard.

What the customer gets:

- A professional page (menu / services / portfolio / brochure style)
- A CMS login — they edit their own text & prices anytime, no calling anyone
- Analytics dashboard — visitors, visits, peak hours, device type, language
- A QR code they can download and stick on tables, counters, cards, the shop door
- Hosting + maintenance handled by us — zero headache for them
- Live in 1–2 days

Why you lead with it: faster to deliver, more features, cheaper for the customer (easier yes), and far fewer ways for the deal to drag. This is where your volume and your commissions come from.

Product B — The Website

A standard multi-page portfolio website on its own .com domain (we'll try to secure a domain that fits their business). Images, videos, the works.

What it is — and isn't:

- ✓ A clean, professional .com presence with multiple pages
- ✗ No CMS login, no analytics dashboard, no self-editing, no QR portal — those are webpage-only features
- Live in 4–5 days

Sell this only when: the business is bigger/luxury, wants a "real website" with a domain, and the money is worth it. Websites eat time through back-and-forth and waiting on customer images/content. We never turn down big money — but don't chase a small business into a website when a webpage serves them better and closes faster.

Webpage vs Website — cheat sheet

	Webpage ★	Website
Hosted at	taplab.in/theirname	their own .com
Delivery	1–2 days	4–5 days
Self-edit (CMS login)	Yes	No

	Webpage ★	Website
Analytics dashboard	Yes	No
QR code	Yes	No
Best for	Restaurants, cafés, salons, gyms, shops, market vendors	Bigger / luxury businesses wanting a full domain
Upfront	₹1,000 – ₹5,000	₹20,000 – ₹1,00,000
Monthly	₹100 – ₹500	₹2,000 – ₹10,000

PART 2 — Your money

- You earn a minimum of 50% of the upfront (development) fee on every deal you close.
- Top performers earn more than 50% — the harder you sell in a month, the bigger your cut for that month.
- Commission is on the upfront (development) fee only — the recurring subscription is not commissionable. So the bigger the setup fee you close, the bigger your cheque.
- We pay as soon as the customer's upfront payment hits our account. If it lands outside business hours or in a batch, you get it on a single reminder — no chasing required. We track every payment in our system, so we may settle several of your commissions together.
- The high rate is deliberate: we've just launched and we want aggressive brokers onboarding businesses fast. This window won't last forever — earn while the rate is high.

TIP

Your incentive in plain terms: Close higher → you earn more. Close more → you earn more. There's no ceiling on how many businesses you sign this month.

PART 3 — Pricing like a pro

You set the price on the spot. Read the business and charge what its standard can bear.

The mindset

Walk in, look around. Marble floors, valet, English-speaking clientele → price high. Plastic chairs, busy local crowd, tight margins → price fair and friendly. Same product, different number. Your job is to find the highest number they'll say yes to without flinching.

Webpage pricing

Tier	Upfront	Monthly
Local / rugged (small eatery, local salon, market stall)	₹1,000 – ₹2,000	₹100 – ₹200
Mid (popular café, established gym)	₹2,500 – ₹3,500	₹250 – ₹350
Premium / luxury (upscale restaurant, boutique salon)	₹4,000 – ₹5,000	₹400 – ₹500

Website pricing

Tier	Upfront	Monthly
Standard business	₹20,000 – ₹40,000	₹2,000 – ₹4,000
Premium	₹50,000 – ₹75,000	₹5,000 – ₹7,500
Luxury	₹80,000 – ₹1,00,000	₹8,000 – ₹10,000

The payment model (how it actually works)

Every deal is one upfront fee + a recurring subscription, collected through a single Razorpay link:

- Upfront = the one-time development charge (this is what your commission is based on).
- Subscription = the recurring fee that keeps their page/site live, hosted, and maintained. Billed every 30 days (monthly) or every 365 days (yearly).

Monthly vs Yearly — the discount rule

Yearly is cheaper than 12× monthly. Simple rule: yearly = 10 months' price (2 months free).

- ₹100/month → ₹1,000/year
- ₹300/month → ₹3,000/year
- ₹500/month → ₹5,000/year
- ₹5,000/month → ₹50,000/year

TIP

Always offer yearly as the "smart" choice — it locks the customer in, improves cash flow, and the discount feels like a win to them. Pitch it as: "Pay monthly at ₹X, or go yearly and get two months free."

PART 4 — Who to target & how to open

Best targets: restaurants, cafés, salons, gyms, Zaveri Bazaar & local market shops, boutiques, clinics, tuition centres — any local business with something to show (a menu, services, products, work).

Best moment to approach: lean hours, not peak rush. A restaurant at 4 PM, a salon mid-morning. The owner has time to listen.

Always ask for the owner/decision-maker. Don't waste your pitch on staff who can't say yes.

HINGLISH

"Bhaiya/Sir, main owner se 2 minute baat kar sakta hoon?"

PART 5 — The full sales script (stage by stage)

The script is a skeleton — say it in your own words, in the customer's language (Hindi / Hinglish / Marathi / English). Never sound like you're reading.

Stage 1 — The approach (door-opener)

Keep it short, confident, and benefit-first.

ENGLISH

"Hi, I'm from TapLab. We build local businesses their own digital page — your menu and photos, with a QR code your customers scan to see everything. Lives in a day or two, and you control it yourself. Can I show you a quick example?"

HINGLISH

"Bhaiya, main TapLab se aaya hoon. Hum aapke business ke liye ek digital page banate hain — aapka menu, photos, sab kuch — aur ek QR code milta hai jo customer table pe scan kar ke dekh lega. 1–2 din mein live, aur aap khud edit kar sakte ho. Ek example dikhaoon?"

GOAL OF THIS STAGE

earn 60 seconds of attention and pull out your phone with a sample.

Stage 2 — Discovery (ask, then listen)

Two or three quick questions. You're finding the pain and reading the budget.

- "How do customers see your menu / services right now?" (handwritten board? old PDF? nothing?)
- "Are you on Instagram or Google? How do new customers find you?"
- "When you change a price or add a dish, how do you update it?"

Let them complain. Their complaint is your pitch. If they say "I have to print new menus every time" — that's your opening: "That's exactly what we fix."

Stage 3 — The pitch (tailored to their pain)

Mirror back what they told you, then map our features onto it:

PITCH

"So right now every time prices change, you reprint — money and time gone. With your TapLab page, you log in, change the number, done. Customers scan the QR on the table and always see the latest. And you'll actually see how many people are checking it — peak hours, what device, everything. All for less than what you spend on chai in a month."

Lead with the 3 hooks that close webpages:

1. You control it (CMS login — no calling anyone)
2. You own a QR (table tents, counter, visiting card)

3. You see your numbers (analytics — owners love this)

Stage 4 — Show samples (this does half the selling)

Open a sample that matches their business type — salon owner sees a salon page, restaurant owner sees a menu page. Let them scroll it. Tap the QR. Show the editor if you can.

SHOW & TELL

"This took us one day. Yours will look like this with your photos and your menu."

(See Part 10 for your sample link list.)

Stage 5 — Present the price (anchor high, frame small)

State the upfront and subscription together, confidently, no apology in your voice. Anchor on yearly.

THE PRICE

"Setup is a one-time ₹3,000, and to keep it live, hosted and maintained it's ₹300 a month — or go yearly and it's ₹3,000 for the whole year, two months free. I'd take the yearly, it's the better deal."

NOTE

Break the monthly down if they blink: "₹300 a month is ₹10 a day — less than one cutting chai."

Stage 6 — Handle objections

See Part 6. Stay calm, never argue, always bring it back to value and the small daily cost.

Stage 7 — Close

Don't ask "do you want it?" Ask how, not whether. (See Part 7 for close lines.)

THE CLOSE LINE

"Should I set you up monthly or take the yearly so you save the two months?"

Stage 8 — Lock the deal

The moment they say yes:

1. Confirm the price, billing cycle (monthly/yearly), and business name/slug.
2. Collect their details (see Part 9).
3. Get the Razorpay payment link to them and stay until they pay — a "yes" isn't a sale until the upfront hits.

PART 6 — Objection-handling playbook

OBJECTION

"It's too expensive."

RESPONSE

"I hear you. Let's look at it as per day — this is ₹10 a day to have your own page, your own QR, and to never reprint a menu again. One extra customer a month who found you through it pays for the whole year."

OBJECTION

"I already have Instagram / a Google listing."

RESPONSE

"Perfect — this works alongside them. But you don't own Instagram, and you can't put your full editable menu and a scannable QR on it. This is your own home base that you control, and you can link it from Instagram too."

OBJECTION

"I'll think about it." / "Come back later."

RESPONSE

"Of course — but let me lock today's setup price for you so you don't miss it. It takes me five minutes to start, and you'll have it live in a day or two. What's making you hesitate — the price or the idea?"

(Find the real objection hiding behind the stall.)

OBJECTION

"Why a monthly fee? Make it one-time."

RESPONSE

"The monthly keeps your page live, hosted, backed up and maintained — and gives you the login, the analytics, and support whenever you need an edit. It's not just a one-time file; it's a running service. That's why it's so cheap upfront."

OBJECTION

"Can I edit it myself, or do I have to call you for everything?"

RESPONSE

"That's the best part — you get your own login. Change a price, add a dish, update timings, anytime. No calls, no waiting."

(Webpage only — never promise this for a website.)

OBJECTION

"I don't have good photos."

RESPONSE

"Not a problem. Send what you have on WhatsApp, and we can clean things up — we can even generate images where needed. We'll make it look sharp."

OBJECTION

"My nephew/cousin can make a website for free."

RESPONSE

"He can — but will he host it, back it up, fix it at 9 PM when it breaks, give you analytics, and update it next year? We do all of that, professionally, for ₹10 a day. Free usually means it never actually gets finished."

OBJECTION

"Will it come up on Google / rank #1?"

RESPONSE

(Be honest — don't overpromise.)

"This is your professional presence and your QR-shareable page — it's not a magic SEO machine, and I won't lie to you about that. What it does brilliantly is give customers a clean place to see everything and give you control and data. If you want full Google ranking work, that's our bigger website package — we can talk about it."

OBJECTION

"Let me ask my partner/wife."

RESPONSE

"Smart. Call them now if you like — I'll wait. Or let's lock the price and slug today and you confirm by evening. Either way I'll hold this rate for you."

PART 7 — Closing techniques

TIP

Use these the moment you sense a yes forming. Pick one, say it, then go quiet — whoever speaks first loses.

Assumptive close

"I'll get yours started today — monthly or yearly?"

► Key action: Assume the yes — make them choose monthly or yearly, not whether.

Alternative close

"Do you want the menu-style layout or the services-style? ...Great, and yearly to save two months?" (Make the choice about how, never whether.)

► Key action: Offer layout and billing choices so the decision is how, never whether.

The two-month-free nudge

"Honestly, take the yearly — same page, two months free, and you don't think about it again till next year."

► Key action: Steer them to yearly for the two free months.

Urgency / intro pricing

"We're onboarding the area right now at launch pricing. I can't promise this setup rate stays once we're booked out."

► Key action: Use launch pricing as a reason to act now.

The down-sell rescue (for websites)

If a ₹40,000 website is scaring them, pivot: "Tell you what — let's start with the webpage at a fraction of that. You get live in two days, you control it, and you can always upgrade to a full website later."

► Key action: If the website price scares them, pivot to the webpage.

The five-minute close

"It takes me five minutes to set up the payment link and we're moving. Shall I?"

► Key action: Offer to set up the payment link right now.

GOLDEN CLOSING HABIT

ask for the sale at least three times in a conversation, in three different ways, before you accept a no.

PART 8 — What we DO and DON'T deliver (read this — it protects your commission)

Overpromising creates refunds, angry customers, and clawed-back commissions. Sell honestly and your deals stick.

We DO:

- Build the page/site fast (1–2 days webpage, 4–5 days website)
- Provide content editing on webpages via the CMS login (they edit their own text/prices)
- Help with images: prefer customer's own, but can provide AI-generated images and light video editing
- Provide an AI-generated logo only if they don't already have one
- Host, maintain, and keep their page/site live for the subscription

We DON'T (don't promise these):

- ✗ Content writing — we edit, we don't write their copy from scratch
- ✗ Professional CorelDraw / Photoshop design work
- ✗ Backend systems, payment gateways, or analytics on websites (analytics is webpage-only)
- ✗ Guaranteed Google ranking / SEO results
- ✗ CMS login or QR or analytics on the website product (webpage features only)

NOTE

Set expectations cleanly at the close. "Here's exactly what you get..." is the sentence that prevents every future fight.

PART 9 — The close-to-cash flow (how you actually get paid)

1. Close the deal — lock price, billing cycle, and business name.
2. Collect from the customer:
 - Business name + preferred page slug (e.g. taplab.in/sharmacafe)
 - Owner name + WhatsApp/phone number
 - Agreed upfront amount + subscription amount + monthly or yearly
 - Any images/content they're providing (collect on the spot if you can)
3. Submit the deal to TapLab — personally WhatsApp message or call Arzish directly, with your Broker ID and all the deal details from step 2, so the commission is tagged to you.
4. TapLab generates the Razorpay link (upfront add-on + subscription) and it goes to the customer.
5. Customer pays → page/site goes into production → delivered in 1–2 / 4–5 days.
6. Your commission is released the moment the upfront hits our account (or on a single reminder, often batched with your other deals).

WARNING

Always tag every deal with your Broker ID. No ID, no commission attribution. Untagged deals can't be paid to you cleanly.

PART 10 — Sample showcase URLs

Show a sample that matches the customer's business type — it does half your selling. Keep these saved on your phone, ready to open.

WARNING

Arzish — fill in the live links below before handing this to brokers, and confirm each one is live and presentable. Don't put a broken or half-finished page in front of a prospect.

Business type	What it shows	Live link
Restaurant / Café (digital menu)	Editable menu, QR, photos	taplab.in/_____
Salon / Spa	Services + prices, gallery	taplab.in/_____
Gym / Fitness	Classes, timings, membership	taplab.in/_____
Portfolio / Personal brand	Work showcase, contact	taplab.in/_____
Boutique / Retail shop	Products, photos, contact	taplab.in/_____
Website example (full .com)	Multi-page, domain	https://_____

Demo tips

- Let them hold your phone and scroll. Tap the QR live in front of them.
- If you can, show the editor login changing a price in real time — this closes owners.
- Always have at least one sample that looks like their business.

PART 11 — Golden rules (the broker code)

1. Lead with the webpage. Always. Websites only for big, willing money.
2. Sell value, then price. Never lead with the number.
3. Anchor high, frame small ("₹10 a day").
4. Push yearly — two months free, locked-in customer.
5. Read the business, price the standard. Marble = high. Plastic chairs = fair.
6. Ask for the sale 3 times, 3 ways before accepting no.
7. Never overpromise. Honest expectations = sticky deals = paid commissions.
8. A "yes" isn't a sale until the upfront is paid. Stay till the link is paid.
9. Tag every deal with your Broker ID.
10. Close today. You have no approval layer — you ARE the deal.

Quick reference card
